

LOONEY IS IN CHICAGO: WILL FACE MURDER CHARGE

Sentenced to Die on Plea of Guilty

WIFE-SLAYER TOLD HE MUST DIE BY JUDGE

"Mercy of Court" He Expected is Sen- tence to Die

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Carlinville, Ill., Nov. 29.—Sentence of death was pronounced against Lester Kahl, wife slayer, by Circuit Judge Frank W. Burton here this morning. Kahl changed his plea of "Not Guilty" to "Guilty" yesterday and threw himself on the mercy of the court. The date of execution was set at December 22.

"It is the duty of this court to see that justice is done," Judge Burton said. "No worse crime has ever been committed in Macoupin county. Therefore I sentence you to hang by the neck until dead."

If this execution takes place it will break Macoupin's long record of no hangings.

Kahl and his wife and buried her body in a shallow grave and then told that she had gone away with a strange man and woman in an automobile. After an intense grueling, he broke down and confessed that he shot his wife with a gun she had brought him in the field.

Later he repudiated his confession and pleaded "Not Guilty." His attorney, Edward C. Knotts, of Springfield, yesterday arranged with the court for the changed plea.

The Kahls had been married three weeks when the killing took place. When sentenced today Kahl, who had been sitting straight in his chair, did not utter a word when the sentence was passed, but dropped his head, covering his face with his hand. A second later he grabbed his shirt collar and unbuttoned it as though seeking more air. Up until the time he changed his plea Kahl had indicated that he would plead insanity.

Ashton Man is Fined Maximum by Justice

A jury in the court of Justice Grover W. Clark deliberated but a very few minutes just before the noon hour today and returned a verdict assessing the maximum fine of $200 and costs against Himan Levin, Ashton junk dealer, who was on trial on a disorderly conduct charge. Levin was alleged to have sold several illegal articles to minors, students in the Ashton schools.

A jury disagreed when the case first came to trial two weeks ago and the justice discharged them. Levin's attorney signified this afternoon that he would appeal the case to higher courts.

$100,000 BONDS TO BE REQUIRED OF LEO KORETZ

Master Swindler Faces Many Charges When He Hits Chicago

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 29.—More than $100,000 in bonds must be filed by Leo Koretz, master swindler, to obtain his release on bail after his arrival here from Halifax which he left last night on the steamship Cornia, bound for New York, according to reports received here.

Return yesterday of three new indictments against Koretz raised the total bonds necessary for his release to that figure, State's Attorney Crowe said. The indictments charged Koretz with obtaining $4,000 each from two persons who invested in his oil schemes and $11,500 from another.

Koretz was spirited out of the county jail in Halifax and taken aboard the steamer by John Starbaro and Thomas Marshall, assistant states attorneys, according to a dispatch to the Chicago Tribune. Previous plans were for his departure with officers and newspapermen in a special car at 8 o'clock this morning.

The steamer was scheduled to arrive in New York tomorrow night.

There, Koretz, as Lou Keyte has bank deposits and owned a book shop and from there he disappeared last December. Whether the prosecutors with him planned a search for any hidden assets there before coming to Chicago was not disclosed.

"Mail Early" Campaign Will Be Opened Monday

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Nov. 29.—Unprecedented efforts will be made during the next few weeks to persuade everyone to "mail early" for Christmas. The campaign will be opened by Postmaster General Now when he goes on the air next Monday evening from Washington radio station, to broadcast an appeal that the postal workers be permitted to have their day at home Christmas Day by everyone posting their gifts, cards and letters so as to permit delivery before the holiday.

Twenty-three broadcasting stations will be utilized by the postmasters in sending forth an appeal. 8,000 motion picture theaters, 20,000 newspapers and thousands of posters are other mediums through which the campaign will be waged.

McCoy's Condition is Much Better Says Doctor

Relatives of Frank McCoy, of this city, who was critically injured while engaged in switching in the Burlington yards at Keokuk, Iowa, have received word that his condition is much improved. While he will be confined to the hospital for some time, attending physicians anticipate a complete recovery. Mr. McCoy was crushed between two cars and sustained a fractured arm, which injuries were thought to be of a fatal nature.

CHAS. BRADSHAW PROMINENT LEE CO. MAN, CALLED

Passed Away at Home in Compton Friday Eve- ning at 7:20

Charles Bradshaw, cashier of the First National Bank of Compton, president of the Board of Trustees of that village and supervisor from Brooklyn township, passed away at his home there at 7:20 o'clock Friday evening as a result of a stroke of apoplexy, which he suffered Tuesday morning.

Public funeral services, which will be attended by prominent men from all parts of the county, will be held at 10 o'clock Monday morning, at the West Brooklyn lodge A. F. & A. M. having charge and with burial in Mendota.

News of Mr. Bradshaw's passing, which spread rapidly throughout the county, brought expressions of sorrow and appreciation of his worth from all sides. He was one of the influential men of the county, and his ability, integrity and progressiveness were held in high regard in all quarters.

Leading Supervisor

He was one of the stalwarts of the Lee County Board of Supervisors, where his fine business ability and far-sightedness made him a decided influence; and his appreciation of his good work his many friends on that body had planned to make him chairman at the next annual meeting in June.

In Compton he will be especially missed. His activities in that village made him one of its foremost citizens. He had lived practically all of his life there and his influence was always for the betterment of the community. His friendships were many and included men and women in all walks of life, all of whom will mourn his death.

Mr. Bradshaw was 53 years of age and is survived by his widow and one son, Max, who is a Junior in the University of Wisconsin.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles F. Reed, State Allenist and wife, are making a call at the State Epileptic Colony.

SEEK YOUTH IN FURNACE DEATH SOLUTION TODAY

Had Entered Cellar of House in That Part of the City

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Columbus, O., Nov. 29.—Nothing which might be of any value in clearing up the mystery which has surrounded the discovery of the practically cremated body of Mrs. Addie Sheatsley in the furnace of Christ Evangelist Lutheran Church parsonage Nov. 17, was unearthed during the examination of the three elder members of the Sheatsley family yesterday according to County Prosecutor King.

Search for a youth who, according to detectives, entered the basement of a house in the fashionable Bexley district not far from the parsonage about 1 o'clock on the day of the tragedy, was being made today.

From the basement of the house the wife of the owner said the youth attempted to gain entrance to the upper part of the house through a door which was locked. The woman told detectives the rear door of the house had been fastened from the outside.

The youth, she told detectives, escaped through a side door leading to the basement through which he has entered. She furnished police with a description of him.

Prosecutor King will have a conference with his assistants this morning. Future activities he said will depend upon the report of scientists who have conducted experiments with guinea pigs in an endeavor to learn how much, if any, carbon-monoxide is developed by the furnace.

More Dixon Folks Hear European Broadcasting

177 Years in Jail is Sentence Given Ex-P. O. Inspector

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 29.—Prison sentences aggregating 177 years—the limit of legal punishment—was imposed by Federal Judge Cliffe today on William Fahy, former post office inspector, and James Murray, local politician, convicted of plotting the $2,000,000 mail train robbery at Rendou, Ill., last June 12. The judge however stipulated that the sentences should run concurrently so that the maximum actual sentence to be served by each is 25 years.

CAPACITY HOUSE AT NURSES' FUND BENEFIT SUNDAY

Fine Sale of Tickets Indicates Interest in Operetta

Everyone is delighted with the brisk sale of tickets for the opera, "Hansel and Gretel," the opera to be given Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Dixon Theater for the benefit of the Community Nurse's fund, with Mrs. Douglas Harvey and Mrs. John G. Raiston, (the Reynolds Sisters), singing the title roles, with Madame Hess-Burr at the piano. Tramoto, famous harpist of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra will assist on the program.

The concert promises to be one of the most delightful musical events ever given in Dixon and is worthy of a large patronage aside from the fact that it is given for a most worthy cause. Tickets may be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce for one dollar; only the box seats are more.

The Misses Reynolds are the only sisters that have ever appeared as soloists with the Chicago Symphony with three other orchestras. They have toured the east and west, appearing in most of our leading cities and university towns, and received the highest praise from the best critics and reviewers.

No doubt the Dixon Theater will be crowded for this social and musical event.

ARRANGING FOR BAIL IN R. I. COUNTY

"Tired of Waiting" He Says: Clearing of Name His Purpose

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 29.—John P. Looney, former publisher of the Rock Island Illinois News, central figure in a factional conflict there that two years ago took a new life, including that of his son, has come here from his ranch in New Mexico with the announced intent of returning to Rock Island to face charges of murder.

Looney went to New Mexico a few days after his son was killed October 6, 1922, as he sat in an automobile in front of a hotel, A. W. Billburg and George Holsapple, convicted of the killing, recently filed affidavits charging four prominent business men and numerous others with hatching a conspiracy to kill Looney, senior, at the same time his son was slain. An indictment charging Looney with complicity in the killing of William C. Gabel, a Rock Island saloonkeeper, was returned against Looney after he left Rock Island.

"Tired of Waiting"

"I was tired of waiting for them to come and get me," Looney said here. "I want to clear up all this mess. I want to clear my name and that of my dead son. I want to disprove all these citizens who have vilified everybody else."

An attack of tuberculosis from which he said he did not expect to recover, forced his trip to New Mexico, he said. His purpose in stopping here he asserted, was to arrange for bonds of from $5,000 to $100,000 before his return Monday or Tuesday to Rock Island.

Jealousy because of his growing power in politics was responsible for the attacks on him, Looney declared. He fought back in his newspaper, a weekly, until the strife was climaxed by the death of his son and his trip to New Mexico.

FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 29.—The Associated Press—John P. Looney, reported today in Chicago arranging for bond on Rock Island County indictments charging him with various crimes, including murder, has been a fugitive from justice for two years. He fled from Rock Island to a ranch in New Mexico and from there sought federal extradition up to the United States Court of Appeals, where a writ of habeas corpus to prevent his return to Lino was denied him.

Looney gave $10,000 bond to insure his appearance in federal court at Peoria on a charge of violation of the Dyer Act, the alleged transportation of a stolen automobile from Iowa to Illinois. Looney, a dual in Peoria federal court next Monday morning when his case is disposed of at Peoria, Looney will be immediately arrested by the sheriff of Rock Island County and returned to this city and held for trial.

Looney for 20 years was the acknowledged ruler of the local underworld. His chief weapon was a weekly paper that specialized in scandals involving prominent people. The paper was suppressed by Attorney General Brundage of Illinois when the fight against the Rock Island underworld and alleged corrupt officials opened two years ago. Looney, who was a practicing attorney, was disbarred by the supreme court, after he fled from the state.

Much of Corn in 7th Reserve Dist. is Soft

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 29.—Much of the corn crop of the seventh federal reserve district is too soft for cribbing or high market grading, according to the monthly business conditions report of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. Reports to the bank from 197,684 farmers show that 16 percent of the crop in Illinois, 31.4 percent in Indiana, 25.2 in Iowa, 40.9 in Michigan and 86 in Wisconsin was in a moist condition.

Output of creamery butter in the district decreased 13.1 percent from September, but advanced 13.2 percent over October 1923. Receipts of other dairy products except poultry decreased at market points.

Domestic sales of agricultural machinery showed further seasonal recession in October, although the aggregate was about the same month last year. Collections continued slow in the southern, southwestern and corn belt states.

Will Start Testimony Against Forbes Monday

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 29.—Introduction of testimony against Charles R. Forbes, former Veterans Bureau head, and J. W. Thompson, St. Louis contractor, will begin Monday in their trial in federal court here on charges of defrauding the government in contracts for veterans hospitals in 1921.

In addition to his chief witness, E. H. Mortimer, the government has indicated it will question Mrs. Caroline Votaw, sister of the late President Harding, and possibly the former wife of Forbes. The defense plans to use the testimony of the former Mrs. Mortimer and possibly her mother, Mrs. Tullage of Philadelphia in addition to a list of witnesses whose numbers will depend on the extent of the prosecution witnesses.

Plotters of Greatest Mail Theft Sentenced

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Nov. 29.—William J. Fahy, former postoffice inspector, and James Murray, a local politician recently convicted of conspiracy in connection with the $2,000,000 mail train robbery at Rendou, Ill., last June 12, were sentenced to 25 years in the federal prison at Atlanta by Federal Judge Cliffe today.

Sentencing of Fahy and Murray, the convicted arch plotters of what has been called the "greatest train robbery," followed denial of new trials to them.

Sentencing of Willis, Willie, Jesse and Joseph Newton and Brent Glasscock, the latter in charge of the actual robbery, was deferred until Monday by Judge Cliffe.

Mount Morris Band to Broadcast Monday Eve

Mr. Morris — Levi Shirk, an aged resident of Mt. Morris, passed away at his home here early Tuesday. He has been cared for in his home since the death of his wife by two of his children, Rev. Nelson Shirk and Miss Elizabeth Shirk. Another daughter, Mrs. A. H. Kittenhouse of Mt. Morris also survives.
Luther Lizer and Prud Prugh and several others in Mt. Morris reported this week to have heard a radio broadcast from station WOC, Davenport, Ia., last Sunday. A radio was installed in the church here, a large congregation gathered and the program came in very clearly, while throughout the town in private homes it was excellent and voices of several choir members were readily distinguished and clearly understood. The solo work of Mrs. A. E. Hecker was beautiful.
The Lutheran ladies served Thanksgiving dinner in the church Thursday at which time four workers in the kitchen were burned when a pan of corn which is thought to have been too tightly covered, exploded. Mrs. George Farwell was the worst burned. Dr. C. J. Price, who was having dinner at the church immediately gave her first aid treatment after which she was taken to his office for more careful dressing. Her worst burns were on her arm. Mrs. Frank Baker was burned on the head. Both ladies were taken home. Edward Rippe and Mrs. Hoffman received facial burns but were able to remain at the church.

The Kahle Brothers band of this city will broadcast a program of choice selections from station WOC, Palmer Station of Chiropractic at Davenport, Ia., Monday evening, Dec. 1 from 8 to 9:30 o'clock.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

BOOSTS NURSES' BENEFIT
Dear Telegraph—I wish to thank you, The Evening Telegraph, for the generous assistance and support for the Community Nurse benefit, Sunday.

From a musical and artistic standpoint I wish to impress the public with the beauty of the fairy tale of this wonderful opera and masterpiece.

The beautiful prayer incident alone is worth hearing and seeing, when the little angels hover over the sleeping children, "Hansel and Gretel."

In view of the appreciation and the confidence Dixon music lovers and surrounding towns have shown me personally over previous attractions have filled the beautiful Dixon Theatre to capacity, we anticipate the same enthusiastic response for the reason that the performance will surpass anything yet given here, and the cause is such a worthy one, I appeal to the people earnestly to come Sunday, Nov. 30 at 2:30 sharp to enjoy an afternoon of rare spiritual, uplifting music.

Married Thanks-giving Evening

On Thanksgiving at 5 o'clock a beautiful home wedding took place at the home of Mrs. Mary Mosholder, 520 10th avenue, which time her daughter, Miss Ruth Mosholder became the bride of John Hagerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hagerman of North Hennepin avenue.

The ceremony was solemnized in the presence of about twenty-five guests, immediate relatives and friends, by Rev. A. S. Moore, pastor of the Methodist church. The home was attractively decorated in yellow chrysanthemums and palms.

The bride couple were unattended. Miss Mary Worley presided at the piano and played the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin and preceding the ceremony accompanied Mrs. Theodore Reedy who sweetly sang Cadman's, "At Dawning." Miss Worley also played Mendelssohn's March at the close of the ceremony.

The bride who is the beautiful and accomplished daughter of Mrs. Mary Mosholder, was lovely in a gown of peacock blue charmeuse, and wore a corsage of sweet peas and rosebuds.

After the congratulations a three-course dinner served the tables beautifully decorated.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hendricks and three children of Sterling; Dr. R. W. Mosholder of DeKalb; and Dr. L. N. Mosholder of DeKalb.

Both the bride and bridegroom are young people with hosts of friends in Dixon vicinity. He is an industrious and progressive young man, with a most likeable personality and his bride is a charming young woman. She is gifted with a beautiful voice and has been present at the dinner, Mrs. Hill is Rev. Case's sister. Rev. Case and family returned this morning.

True Blue Class Treated Patients
The True Blue Class of the Christian church, taught by Mrs. J. E. Heagan, took home-made candy out to the Colony Wednesday evening to the patients and attended the splendid program given by the patients. Feeling they "would not have enough candy," they called for donations from Frank Cahill of the Borden Milk Factory, also the Dixon Wholesale Tobacco Co., and the Dixon Wholesale Fruit & Produce Co., who very generously responded to the call. About three hundred patients enjoyed the treat.

The True Blues are requested to remember the aim for Sunday school tomorrow and the offering for Home Missions.

CHOOSE GOOD FRUIT
Choose fruit that is not bruised as a break in the skin means quick decay.

BOIL VINEGAR
Place a cup of vinegar on the stove and let it boil while you are cooking onions and there will be no objectionable odor.

LARD FOR STAINS
To remove indelible pencil marks from linen put lard on the stain, rub well into the grease spot, wash with warm soap and water. Repeat until removed.

TO SHARPEN NEEDLE
When the needle of your sewing machine becomes dull, stitch for several minutes through a piece of fine sandpaper.

ADD LITTLE SODA
Add a pinch of soda to cranberries when they are nearly done and considerably less sugar will be required for sweetening.

THIN SKINNED LEMONS
Choose the skinned lemons in preference to thick since they contain more juice.

Lee Daly of Dixon Weds Miss Brown

Friday afternoon, Nov. 21st at the Presbyterian manse in Dixon, Rev. Prentiss Hovey Case united in marriage Miss Margaret Brown and Lee Daly of Dixon.

PEORIA AVENUE READING CLUB—

The members of the Peoria Avenue reading club will meet Monday afternoon with Mrs. Wilson Dysart, 606 E. second street.

Menus for a Family

Tested by C. SISTER MARY.

Breakfast—Stewed prunes, cereal, thin cream, fish hash, graham muffins, marmalade, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Baked cheese, custard, celery-apple-nut salad, whole wheat bread, peach islands, plain sponge cake, milk, tea.

Dinner—Tomato bouillon, broiled porterhouse steak, martinique potatoes, buttered brussels sprouts, pineapple salad, whole wheat rolls, steamed date pudding, milk, coffee.

There are no foods suggested on this menu that are not perfectly digestible for children under school age who may appear at the family table.

Beefsteak broiled rare is an excellent food for growing bodies. Not too much of course, and it must be finely cut or scraped before serving to 4-year-olds.

The sprouts are a valuable vegetable and should be eaten even if much tact is needed to accomplish the deed.

Pineapple with a few crumbs of cheese and bits of nuts, but without salad dressing, make the salad for juniors under school age.

A little of the pudding will not do a bit of harm, and satisfies a child's desire for sweets.

Baked Cheese Custard
One egg, 2 cups milk, ½ pound cheese, 2 cups coarse stale bread-crumbs, ½ teaspoon salt, few grains pepper.

Sprinkle a well-buttered baking dish with breadcrumbs. Cover with a thick layer of grated cheese; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Continue layer for layer until all is used. The last layer should be breadcrumbs. Beat egg well, and beat in milk. Season with salt and pepper and pour slowly over the bread and cheese in the baking dish. The best way to do this is to use a tablespoon and moisten the entire mixture evenly. Cover and bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven. Remove cover and brown.

Toast left from breakfast can be used in place of breadcrumbs when convenient.

Peach Islands
One pint canned peaches, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, 1 orange, 1 cup whipping cream, ½ teaspoon vanilla, few grains salt.

Drain peaches from sirup in can. Add enough water to sirup to make one cup. Add sugar to sirup and bring to the boiling point. Add gelatin softened in cold water and the juice of the orange. Take out four tablespoonsful of this sirup and keep hot over hot water. Beat remaining gelatin mixture when it begins to thicken with a Dover beater until frothy. Whip cream and beat into gelatin froth. Pour into serving dish. Dot with halves of peaches. Pour some of the reserved sirup over each half of peach and put in a place to chill. The sirup poured over the peaches makes a thin gelatin coating.

The vanilla and salt are added to the whipped cream before combining with the sirup.

WERE GUESTS AT SCHAFER HOME AT FRANKLIN—

Mr. and Mrs. Will Schaffer of Franklin Grove entertained at Thanksgiving dinner Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Putterbaugh and family of Denver, Colo.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Zoff, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pippert, Mrs. Ida Pippert of Dixon; Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Putterbaugh of Lanark; Mrs. Martha Krehl, Mrs. Arthur Blocher and daughter of Amboy; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Maves and son, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Taylor and family, Miss Ruth Gupitill, Wilbur and Edward Maves, Mrs. Louisa Zopf and daughter Ruth.

Hess-Burr From Famous Family

It is really not wide known from what a famous family of musicians Johanna Hess-Burr comes. Her father was the concert Meister under Theodore Thomas, her brother Willie Hess for years was the first violinist and often conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. He is today the head of the Royal Berlin Academy of Music, the highest position in the world of violin teaching. Her four other brothers are all in the musical world, one being director of the opera in Frankfurt, Germany. So with her early training and her home life being in that of great musicians, is it any wonder she is one of the great musicians of today, and as all great people are simple and true. She loves her home life and expresses herself so often in her love for Dixon and the people here and hopes always to live here. Madame Burr's instruction and her vitality are characteristic of her personality. To be near her inspires one to work toward the highest in art and to listen to her at the piano is a delight that comes only when perfection is attained.

Hill Family Enjoyed Reunion

Members of the Hill family enjoyed a reunion Thanksgiving day, the feature of which was a sumptuous dinner at the Dixon Inn. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hill and son Vernon, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hill, Miss Vada Hill of Rochelle, Edward and Robert Hill, Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lennox and son John, Mrs. Mary Hill and son, Clarence, Mr. and Mrs. William Worley, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hoyle and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Doyle and children of Glen Ellyn, Miss Alice Welch and Charles Dunne of Rochelle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Robinson of Holland, Mich., were the only members of the family who could not be present.

CHILDREN APPEAR AS CHERUBS—

A number of Dixon children will appear as the angels hovering over the good little children Hansel and Gretel, asleep in the big forest, in the opera to be given Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the Dixon theater. Hear the Reynolds Sisters sing the title roles. They have beautiful voices and great talent. Take the children to see how good little children are always rewarded and taken care of. The children can understand this opera thoroughly, the music is beautiful and the story a delightful one.

Thanksgiving Meeting Sunshine Class

The Thanksgiving meeting held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clarence Wickley the Southeast Group of the Sunshine Class, St. Paul's Lutheran church, was enjoyed by twenty-four members and friends. Appropriate music was sung by all. Among other Thanksgiving features were readings by Mrs. Nettie Conkey, Shirley Wickley played a piano solo. Seasonable refreshments were served by the hostess.

The regular meeting time of the group changed to fall on the date of Mrs. Wickley's wedding anniversary, and her friends surprised her with a bouquet of chrysanthemums as a token of their good wishes.

The group will next be entertained by Mesdames Addie Eastman and Jessie Pollett in January at the home of the former.

Double Wedding Event of Wednesday

An interesting and delightful event of Wednesday was the double wedding of a sister and brother.

On Wednesday at 1 o'clock, Gertrude, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Mercer, of Dixon, became the bride of Russell M. Bowers, only son of H. W. Bowers of Polo, the marriage being solemnized at the parsonage by the Christian church in Dixon. Rev. R. H. Cleaver, performing the ceremony. The young people were accompanied by Miss Daisy Wirth and James Mercer, brother of the bride.

The bride, was beautifully gowned in brown satin faced Canton crepe, her coat, shoes, gloves, etc., all being in harmonizing tones of that color, while her hat was in the same material as her gown with gold lace. Mr. and Mrs. Bowers on their return from their honeymoon will reside for a time with the parents of the bride and Mr. Bowers, a most estimable and progressive young man, will embark in business.

Mrs. Bowers is a charming and highly esteemed Dixon girl. Following the ceremony the four people, the bride and bridegroom and their attendants, then proceeded to Nachusa, where the minister of the Nachusa Lutheran church, Rev. Helzel, united in marriage Miss Wirth and James Mercer. Mrs. Mercer wore a handsome gown of henna satin. Both Mr. and Mrs. Mercer are popular young people with a large circle of friends. They will reside on Douglas avenue.

The happy couples left immediately for a motor trip through Iowa and a short visit in Chicago, after which they will be at home to their Dixon friends. All four young people are well and favorably known and have hosts of friends who unite in wishing them happiness and prosperity.

Roberta Maude Has Birthday Party

Roberta Maude Ransom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merton Ransom, today celebrated her tenth birthday anniversary by entertaining about thirty little friends, boys and girls. The marriage being solemnized at the parsonage by the Christian church in Dixon. Rev. R. H. Cleaver, performing the ceremony. The young people were accompanied by Miss Daisy Wirth and James Mercer, brother of the bride.

The bride, was beautifully gowned in brown satin faced Canton crepe, her coat, shoes, gloves, etc., all being in harmonizing tones of that color, while her hat was in the same material as her gown with gold lace. GAMBLING AT CARDS.

The mah jong craze is beginning to wane. It still has millions of enthusiasts. And it will be popular for years. But cards are coming into their own again.
This runs true to history. Thousands upon thousands of gambling games have been invented. But invariably man goes back to "the greasy pasteboards."
When people play cards, they are handling a gambling device so many thousand of years old that the origin is lost in the mists of antiquity.
The very ancient Hindus had a game called "Chaturaji"—which, many experts believe, was the origin of playing cards. "Chaturaji" (the name of "four rajahs or kings") was really highly complicated chess.
Life to the ancients was a lottery. They symbolized this belief in the four divisions of cards—hearts for love out of which life is born, clubs for knowledge, diamonds for wealth, and the acorn or spade for death.
In the Middle Ages, card games took clearer shape. Hearts came to represent bravery. Spades represented swords. Diamonds signified shields. Clubs were symbolic of army provisions. It was a military age, and cards became games of war.
The four kings stood for the famous champions of long ago—David, Alexander, Julius Caesar and Charlemagne.
The four queens represented Argine, Palas, Esther and Judith—who were, respectively, symbolic of majesty, wisdom, piety and fortitude. In some decks of cards, with a little imagination, you can discern these qualities in the facial expressions of the grotesque ladies.
The four knaves represented the gallant captains, Ogier, Launcelot, Lahire and Hector de Gallard.
But if you ask a Chinaman, he will tell you that his race invented cards thousands of years before these celebrated personages were born. To a Chinaman, cards represent the stars, the human virtues and, in their various combinations, about everything under the sun.
It's the oldest game, and it will be played when mah jongg and even baseball are gone and forgotten.

by the least unpleasant method instead of the most unpleasant.
If President Coolidge, moved by urgent entreaties from Japan, should repeat his recommendation to congress for a friendly agreement with Japan on this subject, he might meet now with better success, thereby restoring food relations with Japan and possibly averting a drift toward war. On the other hand, he might not. It is a ticklish subject, especially in the western states. Then there is the reasonable feeling that any important concession would be interpreted as weakness, which interpretation would bring on ultimate war.

Complex problems have simple solutions. Milton A. McRae, in his autobiography, tells how he built up the St. Louis Chronicle in 1887. It was a penny paper, but handicapped because St. Louis did not use pennies for change in those days, a nickel being the smallest coin.
McRae ordered $10,000 worth of pennies from the mint and got them distributed by inducing local merchants to price goods at 49 and 98 cents instead of 50 cents and $1. With pennies in their pockets, people bought the penny paper. Its circulation in one year jumped from 7000 to 25,000.

YOUTH.

To young men who are wasting their precious time, and to parents who are neglecting their children's health, we recommend the following from "Forty Years in Newspaperdom," autobiography of Milton A. McRae, the newspaper publisher-genius:
"The brevity of life is a startling thing when analyzed. A generation is only a little more than 33 years. One-half of the human race dies before attaining the age of 17; one-quarter before the age of 7."

"KIDNAPED."

At an auction in New York a man pays $10,000 for the original manuscript of "Kidnaped," by Robert Louis Stevenson. The author must have turned over in his grave. We don't know what he got for writing this book, but for "Treasure Island," his masterpiece, "Young Folks" magazine paid him only $3 a column. Today he could name his own price. . . . Our generations has the money, but not the Stevensons.

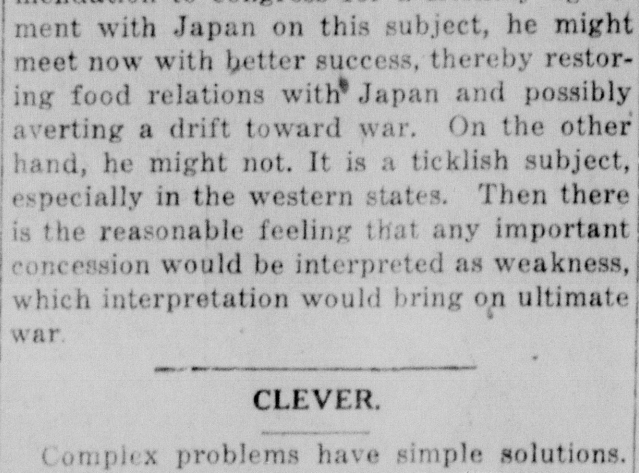

TOM SIMS SAYS

Thirty-three varieties of Cheshire cheese are made in England, not counting her lecturers.
The aborigines of Australia eat moths, so we might import a few next summer as overcoat watchmen.
Papua, only 400 miles from Australia, is over-run by cannibals, and fat people should not go there.
A boy of 14 may legally marry in England, but American girls seldom catch one that young.
A turban ordinarily requires from 10 to 14 yards of cloth and always looks like the morning after.
Easter Sunday in 1930 will fall on April 20. If you want to see this drive your auto carefully.
The sun's age is put at five million years. Its long life may be due to never staying out at night.
In Paris watches used for buckles on shoes even keep time when their wearers dances.
The Rocky Mountain blue bird is blue all over, perhaps because things are so high there.
All judges and lawyers are referred to in British courts as "learned." The British are great jokers.
Twenty-two American colleges make girl students swim. It is more helpful toward marrying than anything.
If they don't forget to do it, the Plumbers' Association will spend some money to stop jokes on plumbers.
Americans spend more than a million dollars a week for chewing gum, and still more for chewing the rag.
The Chinese are raising more peanuts than Americans now. They always have raised more coin.
A Frenchman has a radio to be carried in an umbrella, which would be one way for a bug to forget radio.
Christmas, luckily, always arrives six days before its bills.

JAPANESE EXCLUSION AGAIN

Japanese exclusion is coming up again when congress assemblies in December. Japan is not willing to accept the situation as it stands, with her people explicitly barred from the United States. Her government hopes to obtain some change in the law that will not hurt so much the pride of the Japanese people.
It may be just as well to reopen the issue, inasmuch as American-Japanese relations have been severely strained and show no signs of improvement. The United States, needless to say, can not yield on the essential point of remaining sole judge of whom it shall admit to this country. Neither can it open the gates to Asiatics, particularly of the yellow race, because their millions would reduce American living standards and would not mix well with American stock. This is not a condemnation of any Asiatic race. It is merely common-sense recognition that races are essentially different. This nation has had its hands full since the Civil war seeking to reasonably reconcile the white and black races.
There remains, however, what seems to have been the real question involved when the anti-Japanese legislation was passed—the question of effecting Japanese exclusion

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

SEVERAL RIDDLES

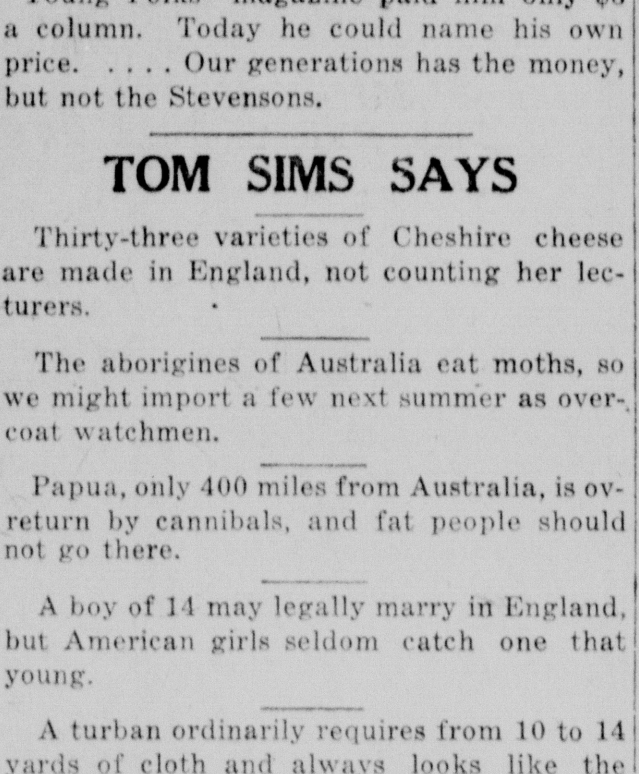

"Well, Tom Tinker guessed it anyway," said the Riddle Lady, "and he gets the prize—a bottle of perfume."

"Here's a riddle for everybody to guess," said the Riddle Lady. "It's very easy—as plain as the nose on your face."
Nancy and Nick and all of Mrs. John's visitors stopped talking and listened with all their might.
"This was the riddle,"
"I beat you to bed, I beat you to school, and I beat you getting home again. No matter where you go or what you do, you never catch up to me. I am right before you, yet you never see me. Who am I?"
"A shadow!" guessed Nimble Jack.
"The wind," guessed Johnny Sprink.
"No," said the Riddle Lady.
"Aha, I know!" cried Tom Tinker. "It's your nose."
"No, your nose," laughed the Riddle Lady. "My nose doesn't beat you to school and beat you home again. It's your own nose."
"You should say one's nose," corrected the Wise Man. "If you wish to know anything about grammar, come to me."
"Well, Tom Tinker guessed it anyway," said the Riddle Lady, "and he gets the prize—a bottle of perfume."
"Humph! I should think a pinch of snuff would be more like it," sniffed Dr. Foster.
"Aren't there any more riddles?" asked Nancy who got tired of so much talking.
"Yes," said the Riddle Lady. "What is this?"

"I have more keys than Bluebeard, yet I cannot unlock a door."
Everybody guessed and guessed, but not a soul got it, and finally they all gave up.
"A piano," said the Riddle Lady. "Now what's this one?"
"When I am good I am very, very good and when I am bad I am horrid. I am only useful when I am broken. The older I grow the stronger I get."
"Well, I guess I should know what that is," said Humpty Dumpty. "It's an egg, isn't it?"
"Yes," said the Riddle Lady. "You are right, Mister Dumpty. I hope I didn't hurt your feelings."
"Certainly not," said Humpty Dumpty. "I hope I'm not as thin-skinned as all that."
"What's the next riddle?" asked Puss in Boots.
"I was just coming to it," said the Riddle Lady. "What is it that grows bigger the more it loses. It comes in stockings, doughnuts and sieves."
"Stockings!" cried Mrs. Dumpling.
"Well I ought to know with a son like mine. Holes, of course."
"That's right," said the Riddle Lady. "And here is your prize, Mrs. Dumpling, a darning basket."
There were more riddles after that, but I'll have to wait until tomorrow to tell you the rest.

OBITUARY

CHRISTIAN J. WASMUND
Christian John Wasmund was born in Waukegan, Mecklenburg, Schwerin, Germany, October 6, 1849. He was baptized and confirmed there in the Lutheran faith. At the age of 23 he was united in marriage to Frederike Goers, at Wehlin Mecklenburg, Streilitz. In the year 1891, at the age of 42 he sailed for America, landing in New York on the 4th of July, from there he went to Michigan City, Ind., where he worked in a factory, living there one year and then moved to Mendota. From Mendota he went to Eldena, where he spent the rest of his days, living on the farm with his son Herman Wasmund.
For the last two years he has been failing in health, his mind being unclear at times caused from the hardening of the arteries, he was a patient sufferer, and during his last days he had very little pains, and passed quietly away on Wednesday morning at 8:45, Nov. 26th, at the age of 75 years, one month and 20 days.
His wife and two sons preceded him in death.
Those to mourn his passing are: His son, Herman Wasmund, of Eldena, Ill.; his daughter, Mrs. Augusta Block, Rock Falls, Ill.; also a sister, Mrs. Lena Michaels, n Germany.
The funeral services were held Friday morning at 11 o'clock at the Immanuel Lutheran Church with interment at Oakwood cemetery. Rev. A. G. Suechting officiating.

Sealed! to protect Buick performance

Buick's chassis is sealed. Iron and steel housings protect the operation of all driving parts—seal them in to safeguard Buick performance.

Here are the vital points at which Buick engineering provides this extra protection:

- FAN HUB—Fan bearing totally enclosed—lubricated by its own gear pump.
- MOTOR—Steel cover keeps water from short-circuiting spark plugs. Steel cover over valve-in-head mechanism keeps dust out, oil in.
- STARTER-GENERATOR—Delco single unit starter-generator completely housed in single housing. Starting gears housed with flywheel.
- FLYWHEEL—Completely housed. Starting teeth protected from road damage and accumulation of mud and dirt.
- CLUTCH—Multiple disc—completely housed.
- TRANSMISSION—Completely protected. Shifting mechanism holes sealed.
- UNIVERSAL JOINT—Completely encased in ball joint at front end of torque tube—lubricated automatically from transmission.
- PROPELLER SHAFT—Buick's third member drive, which is a torque tube, completely encloses the propeller shaft. It is impossible for road dirt to work from the shaft into the universal joint or rear axle.
- REAR AXLE—Floating type, totally enclosed in rear axle housing.

Thirty heads of police departments of the various railroads that operate in the Chicago district, representing a large part of the railroad mileage of the country, held an important conference Thursday afternoon, October 30.

Anticipating the usual epidemic of pillage and pilfering that reaches its peak in the winter season, these gentlemen set out early to devise practical ways and means to reduce these huge losses to a minimum.

It is no State secret that itinerant crooks are inveterate readers of The Detective. To these we wish to offer a gratuitous and valuable tip. Lay off the freight cars of Chicago during the coming months unless you are anxious to do another stretch.

Under the skillful direction of Leary Benson, Chief of Police of the C. M. & St. P. Ry., and President of the Association, rapid headway was made during an enthusiastic three hour session in which every member participated and gave the best he had to offer.

Chief Benson is one of the most able, affable and broad-gauged representatives of all the Chief Special Agents and Railroad police chiefs of the country. Through his strong personal prestige, and practical ability, he recently, singlehanded, secured the passage of an ordinance giving all railroad police and special agents full powers of arrest, and other powers exercised by members of the Chicago police department.

The Chicago Railway Special Agents and Police Association is the strongest organization of its kind in the world. It commands the esteem and confidence of all branches of law enforcement in Chicago and that section of the country and by close and intelligent co-operation among the various departments has accomplished wonderful results for the railroads, and the shipping public.

BROTHER DIXON WOMAN IS HEAD OF DETECTIVES

Leary Benson Written up in "Detective" Magazine Now.

The following from "The Detective" concerning Leary Benson, brother of Mrs. William C. Feltes of this city, will be of much interest to her friends:

Thirty heads of police departments of the various railroads that operate in the Chicago district, representing a large part of the railroad mileage of the country, held an important conference Thursday afternoon, October 30.

Anticipating the usual epidemic of pillage and pilfering that reaches its peak in the winter season, these gentlemen set out early to devise practical ways and means to reduce these huge losses to a minimum.

It is no State secret that itinerant crooks are inveterate readers of The Detective. To these we wish to offer a gratuitous and valuable tip. Lay off the freight cars of Chicago during the coming months unless you are anxious to do another stretch.

Under the skillful direction of Leary Benson, Chief of Police of the C. M. & St. P. Ry., and President of the Association, rapid headway was made during an enthusiastic three hour session in which every member participated and gave the best he had to offer.

Chief Benson is one of the most able, affable and broad-gauged representatives of all the Chief Special Agents and Railroad police chiefs of the country. Through his strong personal prestige, and practical ability,

MASTER'S REPORT
CAMOUFLAGE FOR NEW SMALL ATTACK

Judge Burton "Spills the Beans," Says Princeton Paper.

Bureau Co. Republican-Governor Len Small is marshalling all his political and legal forces for another great battle.

After what transpired in Judge Frank W. Burton's court at Springfield November 20, he and his advisers are convinced that another fierce drive against him has been launched.

So the Small generals, who have never yet sounded a retreat, are preparing again for warfare, preparing to meet the interest accounting issue which will be forced against them in Judge Burton's court next Monday, preparing to withstand a certain onslaught in the Legislature—an onslaught which might go to the extent of an attempt to withhold from the governor his certificate of re-election.

They and all the state politicians in Springfield are making excited comments about the startling revelations that Judge Burton made from the bench.

It was just a glimpse that the jurist gave of the political background to the case before him.

Judge Tells of "Plot"

In calm, judicial language the jurist stated that Charles G. Briggie, his own master in chancery, who prepared the interest-accounting report against the governor, and assistant attorney generals who have been prosecuting or persecuting Gov. Small for three years, came to him just before election with a political proposition in connection with this tremendously important case. They wanted, just before election, the entering of an order for the presentation of the master's report condemning the governor.

If Judge Burton had granted this amazing request, at a time when there could have been no possible opportunity before election for a judicial answer or determination, he in his own words, would have been "a hell of a judge; a politician, not a judge."

The judge scorned the proposition of permitting the master's report which he had never seen, to be thrown into the political arena against Gov. Small.

Judge Is Jones' Friend
Judge Burton, whose gravely accusing statement met with no denial, is no ally of Gov. Small. He is a Democrat, the Governor is a Republican. In his own words, he is a "friend and an associate" of Judge Norman L. Jones, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, who launched scathing attacks against Governor Small in the recent campaign.

And Judge Burton dramatically denounced forceful and scolding logic pleas on the part of Governor Small's new legal counsel for delay, for sufficient time to enable the lawyers to get some line on the mass of testimony and the "ten bushes of exhibit," which no man could read in a year's time.

Patrick H. O'Donnell, Senator John Bailey of Peoria, and Chester E. Cleveland were the lawyers who came into court for the first time to re-enforce young Werner Schroeder, the governor's protégé, who alone for months had been holding the legal line against four to ten assistant attorney-generals, so that his benefactor might not be improved by the payment of huge legal fees in the long-drawn-out litigation.

Follow Brundage's Order

But cold and uncompromising, carrying out Attorney General Brundage's orders, Assistant Attorneys-General C. W. Hadley, C. N. Board, Ashton Campbell, E. A. Hendry, and others pressed their demand after the judge had decided with them on technical notions that Governor Small be forced last Monday to answer and enter exceptions to the voluminous report of Master Briggie with its drayload of exhibits "dumped into court."

It was only when Attorney O'Donnell pleaded the softening argument of Thanksgiving week that the judge relented a bit and postponed the beginning of the argument until next Monday.

If rumor is to be believed, a final fight in the court of Circuit Judge Burton, indicating that the Governor owed to estate money, would be used as a legislative excuse for holding up Governor Small's certificate of re-election, voted by a 500,000 popular majority, November 4, as Governor Deussen's certificate was held up in the famous Deussen-Stevenson gubernatorial election contest of 1908.

Bi-Partisan Rumors

Rumor, following on the heel of rumor, tells of a bi-partisan Brundage-Lefeman combination to attempt to organize the lower house at least against Governor Small and hold up his certificate of re-election.

David E. Shanahan presumably would be the candidate for speaker of this bi-partisan crowd; Representative Robert Scholes of Peoria, is regarded as Governor Small's candidate for speaker.

It is the legislature, sitting in joint session, which canvasses the election returns of state officers and controls their election certificates.

The crux, the big factor in this new crisis in the troubled career of Governor Len Small is Oscar Carlstrom, attorney general-elect.

He will be inaugurated in January—and the Brundage will pass out. Last spring, Carlstrom declared that if elected, he would dismiss all the interest cases pending—cases in which Len Small alone has been singled out for court attack, although several other state treasurers are defendants.

Politics In Case

In making his startling charge of political intrigue in the case against Governor Small, Judge Burton said: "Gentlemen, there is something in this case and that has been in the minds of all of us, but has not been talked about or discussed, and we will have a better understanding if the court talks a little about it. I injected this case a year ago. A peculiar situation arose that was, one of the defendants voluntarily became a candidate for Governor and my associate who had the case before me concluded he was going to be a candidate for governor one year ago. There had been a disqualification of one of my associates, Judge Smith, and I was unfortunate in this respect to be the only one to whom it would fall, and it was necessary for me to take charge of it, where Judge Jones left it."

"I announced to the gentlemen one year ago in some preliminary that I was going to attempt to try this case as justly as I could without being influenced by any of the political situations, and I have tried to do that. I think, so far, I have pretty well succeeded."

"The case was referred to the Master and evidence taken. It comes before me on a motion, first on a motion to suppress, that was passed upon promptly and within a short time. Then there was a motion, as I recall, to fix a time when the evidence for the defendant should be closed. That was along, as I recall it, about the middle of May, and those representing the Attorney General were insisting upon a short delay, and it would soon be summer and I was going to take a vacation. I knew, and I fixed it practically at the time that Mr. Schroeder indicated. He indicated ninety days, and I think I fixed it at about seventy or eighty days. The eighth of August, as I recall it, was the fixed time for the closing of the testimony on the part of the complainant. The 8th of September was the fixed time when I was to be here. I returned on the 7th of September. At that time I believe you were arguing the case before the Master. I was in Springfield at the

HE DREAMT OF ADVENTURE 40 YEARS.
AND THEN FOUND "GOD'S FOOTPRINTS"

BY GEORGE BRITT
NEA Service Writer

New York—"God's footprints" or "yetso beta" is the Navajo name for the dinosaur tracks which Charles L. Bernheimer found imprinted on the hardened floor of Nesaja-nizadi Canyon, in Arizona.

And following these tracks of God, searching for them over jagged cliffs, through cactus, scorpions and heat, was a divine quest for this 60 year old city business man. The green and tepid water seeping out in desert sand dunes were bubbling fountains of youth.

As to the tracks themselves, Dr. Clark Wissler of the American Museum of Natural History says they are probably the most numerous and interesting group ever found. Thirty footprints are uncovered, and others can be found simply by removing a cliff a quarter of a mile high which arises as one wall of the canyon.

14-Inch Track

The cracks were left by at least four animals, wading once in the muddy mud which hardened into stone. The largest track is 14 inches from heel to tip of claw, and the stride was about 40 inches.

After the imprints were made, according to scientists, they were entirely covered over during some earth convulsion. Then the stream thousands of centuries bared them again. Undoubtedly other tracks exist, in the same stratum, shelved within the adjacent canyon wall.

For 40 years Bernheimer had wanted to ride bronchos, meet Indians, get acquainted with coyotes and sagebrush and plunge into the map's blank spaces on adventurous explorations.

The team he had as an office boy in a wholesale dry goods house did not wear off as he prospered in the marts of civilization and became president of his own textile manufacturing company.

He had been to California a few years ago and was coming home across the Arizona desert country. He had been there before and felt the same longings. This time he got off the train. He was a tenderfoot and getting old, but he struck the gold-hued trail of romance into the forbidden unknown. Since then he time when you were arguing it before the Master. I came here for the purpose of consulting with Judge Smith with reference to some order he was making and incidentally I called the Master and made a suggestion to him. I stated to him my views as to what I thought he ought to do in regard to that hearing. It is unnecessary for me to state here, but it was nothing against either side. In substance, it was that we was to hold a careful hearing and make a good report.

Keeps Politics Out

"Later it came to me, that for political reasons the Master was ready to report and wanted to report, and there was some insinuations that I ought to require the Master to report, which I declined to do at the time, as I thought under the circumstances that would be departing from the announced purpose that I had stated as far as possible from all politics, and has been going back every year, growing younger and more enthusiastic.

Last summer he not only found the dinosaur tracks and mapped the supposedly impassable Navajo Canon in northeastern Arizona, but he performed a feat of physical grit and endurance which any young athlete might admire.

He made the trip of 20 days on foot and horseback with five of his lower vertebrae cracked and broken. This over terrain that made the well-known Bright Angel Trail of the Grand Canyon look like a boulevard.

Five Vertebrae Broken

"My horse threw me the second day out," says Bernheimer. "It hurt, all right, but I picked myself up, caught the horse and went ahead. After a few days the pain eased. I thought the exercise was 'limbering up,' my soreness. I couldn't have done it when I first started making desert trips of course, but I got through all right. After I returned home I had an X-ray examination, and it showed the little projections or spines on five vertebrae were broken."

Bernheimer on an earlier trip discovered a new and shorter trail around Navajo Mountain to the famous Rainbow Bridge. He has written a book about the wonderful bridge. Another time he found in superimposed strata the prehistoric remains of four different types of early civilization, from nomadic to cliff dweller, providing an important key to their chronological development.

Roughing it in the desert, according to Bernheimer, has taught him to "fry ham and eggs without having either ham or eggs." It taught him when his camera was smashed to improvise a shutter with a black sock and make good pictures. It gave his life an intensified vitality and velocity which reversed the rate of what were supposed to be his "declining years."

I conferred with the Master about making a report and as to whether he was withholding a report and I understood from the Master that he was not. I didn't act the part of a politician. I said that I would not do it and I did not do it. Now that has been the extent to which politics has attempted to mix into it.

"It has been discussed that the next attorney general when he comes into office will dismiss this procedure, and it has been suggested to me that this might perhaps be an easy way out of it—not by you, I will say—but I wish to say by an easy way out I don't know any easier way than a granting of extension of time, let someone else assume this responsibility, bringing that matter of politics into it. I think that in view of the course of this case I am in the same position that I have taken in regard to not forcing a report from this Master so that this judicial proceeding could be made a matter of politics, that the same reason has impelled me now to have this case set down for a hearing and disposed of as diligently as it can be during the term of the present Attorney General, who has been in control of this case, and not postpone it and complicate it with some other question that may arise which we all can see, involving the right of an Attorney General to carry out some political promise that he has made—it has been made public—so we all know it, and inject another element into this case. That is my feeling. I don't know what this Master's report is. The Master never told me, I haven't seen it. I did not want to."

The Fine Art Of Leisure That which may be euphonic for one man is dyspeptic for another. What is a house-jacket for you. Some men are home-sick when they are out and sick of home when they are in. Roundlayers immortalize Home and rounders anathematize it. As the clock sounds of the pendulum, it depends. Nevertheless, the possession of a smart, comfortable house jacket is indispensable to correct dress which applies not merely to what is worn outside, but equally to what is worn within. The gentleman is presentable at all times and under all conditions. He is never caught off guard.

Furthermore, a house jacket saves appreciable wear-and-tear upon one's other clothes and gives, besides, a feeling of smartness and appropriateness which is undeniably soothing and agreeable. It is not at all necessary to go in for flamboyant effects if you do not fancy them. There are many excellent house jackets which are as plain as the chum of a pretty girl and which, with care, will render years of valued service.

The spruce jacket, pictured in the accompanying sketch, is of heavy broadcloth carried out in a contrasting scroll pattern. The sharply peaked lapels, the pocket tops and the sleeve-edges are faced with bright differently colored satin or moire silk. The notch collar is broad and low. The front edges are rounded off. The single button gives just enough anchorage to hold the jacket snugly in place and outline the wearer's figure.

Naturally, this is but one of scores of smart jackets, simple or sumptuous, which are procurable now in anticipation of the holidays, from silks and velvets to plaid-braid cashmeres and double-faced cloths trimmed with braid or silk cord. Frequently, the house slippers are matched. Gray, navy, brown, tan, purple and wine are favorite shades.

As a rule, the good old shawl collar takes the place of the newer peaked lapels. Indeed, some house jackets are cut exactly on the lines of a Tuxedo coat, differing only in material. While you will sometimes find house jackets made with trousers to match, then called house or room suits, this idea is European rather than American and does not seem to commend itself to us for the Fine Art of Leisure.

III—EMANCIPATION OF MISS SUON-HENG

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Donald White, bound for the Grand-Putah estate in Borneo, meets beautiful Miss Suon-Heng aboard a neighboring steamer to marry Mr. Lai-Ho, Chinese rubber king.

White is paying too much attention to the new Mrs. Lai-Ho. He takes steps to stop the affair at once, telling White to cease seeing Mr. Lai-Ho's bride. Mr. Lai-Ho sees him on the trolley from the coast town.

It occurred to Corrigan that the other did not seem the least bit pleased to see him and, for the first time, it dawned upon him that the steamer left Jesselton for Labuan that week. The well of Chinese cunning has no bottom! Corrigan was beginning to understand things! It stands to the great man's credit that he succeeded in keeping Mr. Lai-Ho in polite conversation for a little over an hour, so long, in fact, that it left very little doubt in the planter's mind that the Chinaman's wayward wife had been given ample time to get home.

As he watched the magnate's trolley lumbering out of sight, Corrigan shook his head.

"I shouldn't be the least surprised," he reflected, "if that yellow background had some inkling as to what was in the wind—and has had young White's bungalow under close observation for some time past."

He stroled down to the water's edge to admire the rippling surface, bathed by a rising moon. It was close upon midnight when he reached his steps toward the bungalow. Half way up the slope he overtook a strange coolie going in the same direction. He caught him by the shoulder and swung him round.

To the uninitiated all coolies look alike, but to Corrigan, who knew every man in his employ, this creature's face was strange.

"Where are you going?" he demanded in Malay.

"Sana," replied the man, which was not helpful.

Corrigan aided his memory with his malacca. There was too much veiled insolence in the coolie's tone to suit the planter.

"Who employs you?"

"Lai-Ho," replied the man, with some hesitation.

"Blah," and he let him go.

There was only one reason why the rubbering's men should have invaded Corrigan's territory at that time of night. The planter, therefore, proceeded to the coolie lines on his side of the estate, roused a reliable Chinaman, and sent him off to keep a watchful eye on his neighbor—and report progress from time to time.

White woke from a fevered sleep to find two shadowy forms bending over him before he could raise himself to a sitting position, a cloth was clapped over his mouth and he was borne, struggling, into the night.

There were more men outside and he could hear no sign of his dog. The orientals who held him were possessed of enormous strength and presently he felt things being wound tightly round his wrists and ankles. He was thrust into a sort of hammock suspended from a pole and knew that he was being carried down the slope. As the journey continued, half-asleep as he was by the cloth over his face, he lost all sense of direction. The more he endeavored

DIXON ATTORNEY TELLS OF JAUNT TO PUGET SOUND

R. H. Scott Writes Entertainingly of Recent Auto Trip.

By R. H. Scott

In most folks a jaunt is a jaunt, or a jaunt is a jaunt. In some it remains practically dormant. In others, it asserts itself and they take to the road. In the old days portrayed in the film, "The Covered Wagon," the more courageous followed the trail to the great Oregon country, reaching California, Oregon and Washington by way of the ox and horse pulled vehicles, many of them leaving their friends and dear ones along the perilous and weary way.

In the more recent age, the modern auto and aeroplane have come to make quicker and, perhaps, less filled with peril, the trip of the nomad. Today, the "auto tramp" has become a well known and easily recognized part of the moving world.

In the following brief sketch, I shall try to tell you just a little of a trip we took into the western country by auto.

For several months we had contemplated and planned an auto trip into Colorado where we have relatives, and with the thought that maybe we might go on across the mountains into the Oregon-Washington-Puget Sound Country. Finally everything was arranged, and on July 3rd last, we started. Our equipment consisted of a Dodge Sedan, fixed so that it made a very good bed for sleeping, and a full line of camp goods and tents, etc.

We followed the Lincoln Highway into and across Iowa, stopping at Clarence, Boone and Dunlap. Sunday morning we crossed the ferry above Omaha, had dinner at Blair, and stopped two nights with relatives at Fremont, Nebraska. On July 7th, we resumed our trip, camping at Gibbons and North Platte, Neb.; Sterling, Colorado and arriving at Denver on the eighth day out. Here we spent two weeks with relatives, and made many side trips, going to Colorado Springs, Manitou and Pikes Peak.

From a cabin which we rented near Manitou, we drove to Garden of the Gods, Cave of the Winds, Seven Falls, Cheyenne Pass and many other places of great interest and scenic charm.

On the way to Manitou, we visited the wonderful sanatorium built and maintained by the Modern Woodmen. It has a modern hospital, scores of cottages for patients, administration and many other fine buildings, and makes use of the latest and best methods for the cure and relief of victims of tuberculosis. This worthy and useful institution, with its hundreds of acres located in the mountains, is laid out with beautiful drives, walks and shrubbery, and is well worth a visit.

While at Denver, we also motored to Lookout Mountain, at the peak of which we visited the grave of the great scout of former days—Buffalo Bill. His resting place is marked by a huge stone and surrounded by an iron fence, and affords a fine view for many miles in all directions. In a rustic pavilion near by, are famous relics and souvenirs of the famous Indian fighter and scout, and of the early days of the mountain and plains country. We spent two nights on this mountain in a quiet and wonderful lodge maintained by the Denver Y. W. C. A. girls. Our party of six were the sole occupants at the time. It was a massive log structure with immense fire places, capacious dining rooms, dormitories, verandas and kitchen. Pianos and victrolas furnished music for a merry, if somewhat exclusive party. One night some members of our party were invited to participate in a "jaunt fest" put on by young folks who were stopping in nearby cabins.

Having decided to go into and across the mountains to Portland, Tacoma and Seattle, we started on July 26th, camping enroute at Ft. Collins, Colorado; Laramie, Rawlins, and Green River, Wyoming; and on Bear Lake, a beautiful spring fed lake twenty miles long, lying partly in Utah and partly in Idaho. We stayed all night at Lava Hot Springs, Idaho, where we enjoyed the novelty of a swim in an immense bath house, where we met scores of folks from every section of the land. It is necessary to cool the hot spring water from the mountain before it is comfortable for bathing. Many come here to receive benefit from these baths, which are said to possess medicinal qualities.

The next evening we crossed the Snake River, camping at Rupert, Idaho, arriving at Twin Falls on August 2nd. Here we spent Sunday with friends who took up to Shoshone Falls and other points of interest. The Twin Falls country is under irrigation and presents a great contrast to the sage and sand that is all about it. In some places one side of the road was flanked with wonderful crops, while on the other side were the monotony and desolation of sage and sand, demonstrating what water will accomplish when properly applied. The great ditches, the dams and the controlling works of an irrigation project are a source of wonder to a tender foot from Illinois. Apples, wheat, beans, alfalfa and many other crops are raised in this oasis of the Idaho desert land.

Monday evening found us at Boise, the capital, and the following night we spent at Baker City, Oregon. We left the Lincoln Highway at Ranger, Wyoming and the rest of our trip was over the Old Oregon Trail, followed by the pioneers, in a north-westerly direction. At American Falls we met a man who had met and knew quite well Ezra Meeker, now past ninety, who this summer made the trip from Van Couver, B. C., to Ohio by aeroplane, following the Old Oregon Trail—the same route he had taken many years ago with an ox team. American Falls is the town they propose to move some distance, making way for an immense reservoir to be created for irrigation purposes, and which will reclaim hundreds of thousands of acres of now desert lands for productive irrigation farming. At present it is very hard to visualize what it will be like when fully completed.

Driving west from Rupert, Idaho, we again crossed the Snake River over the famous Hansen suspension bridge, about seven hundred feet long. From the floor of the bridge to the water below, it is 348 feet. This bridge spans the Snake river and Canyon of the river, and is well worth a visit.

Driving west from Baker City, we camped at Pendleton, Oregon, and in the morning visited the Pendleton factory where the famous blankets, bath robes and other articles are made. We have one of the latter as a souvenir of the visit and trip.

August 7th was a hot dusty day, and at three we made camp at Fieck's Grove, a most beautiful place in the Columbia River Valley—a sort of wide Canyon. From the Dalles westward through the Columbia River Valley, the scenery is wonderful and the roads get much better. August 8th we camped at Corbett, thirty miles east from Portland where we reached the following morning. No one who has the chance should miss this wonderful drive down and along the Columbia river, which from this point goes to be very wide. In many or most places the auto road is hundreds of feet above the river and the U. P. Railway tracks. It is well nigh impossible to adequately describe the grandeur of this part of the trip. Some forty miles easterly from Portland the county officials have erected a structure, known as Vista Rest. It is built of stone, marble and glass. It stands on an eminence overlooking the river, and commands a most wonderful view for many miles in all directions.

At Portland we crossed the river passing through Van Couver, Kelso, Olympia, Tacoma and reaching Seattle on August 10th, fifteen days out of Denver, including the stop at Twin Falls.

While at Seattle, we drove with a party to Ranier National Park, 150 miles southeast, saw the snow clad mountain, the glaciers, the hotels, the wonderful mountain roads, and beautiful scenery. While there, we attended a dancing party at Paradise Inn, a mammoth rustic hotel with huge fireplaces, spacious lobbies and rustic settings. Present on this occasion were folks from all parts of the country, but among them all, none attracted more attention than a large delegation of movie folks from Hollywood. They had come in the same day we arrived, and their chief mission was to make a picture of the west entitled "Sal." Among the "scenery" brought up by truck was a very ancient and weather beaten stage coach.

Although it was August, our first night at Ranier was cold, misty, cloudy and unpleasant, and all guests quartered in cabins resorted to hot back to warm the beds. Every one was out at an early hour the next morning, and a warm clear sun peeped over the mountain tops, and altered the first glimpse for a week of the snow and Mt. Ranier and the glaciers. It was a most wonderful sight to us all. Deer, bear and other wild animals were very tame and quite common. Nothing we saw anywhere quite equalled in wonder and beauty this trip to Ranier National Park, which is eighteen miles square.

While at Seattle, we also drove north 165 miles on the Pacific paved highway through Everett, Bellingham and other cities, across the international border at Blaine into Canada. We spent one night at a beautiful place, New West Minister, B. C., driving into the city of Van Couver the next day. This is a town of 225,000 people, but seems to lack the energy and progress that is everywhere manifest on this side the international border.

We made many short excursions over the hundreds of miles of perfect roads which radiate in all directions from Seattle. Seattle is a town of about 400,000 and growing very fast. While we were there, a 600 room hotel, a bank building covering a city block, 1500 houses, many apartment houses and hotels, much municipal work and highways were under construction.

We had no accidents and no serious trouble anywhere. We met many Boils!

Ouch!

S.S.S. will rid you of boils, pimples, blackheads and skin eruptions!

DON'T CLOSE your eyes to the warning which Nature gives when angry, painful boils appear on your neck, face or other parts of your body. Boils, pimples and so-called skin disorders are the result of an impoverished condition of the blood and are not to be trifled with.

It is nothing more than folly to expect to get absolute relief from the use of local treatments, such as ointments, salves, etc. Such remedies may afford temporary relief but you want more than relief; you want a remedy which will rid you forever of the torturing disorders. And the one remedy which has no equal is S.S.S.

S.S.S. stops boils and keeps them from coming. S.S.S. builds blood-power! That is what makes fighting blood. Fighting blood destroys impurities. It fights boils. It fights skin eruptions—pimples, blackheads, eczema! It always wins! S.S.S. has been known since 1823 as one of the greatest blood builders, blood cleansers and system strengtheners ever produced. There are no unproven theories about S.S.S., the scientific results of each of its purely vegetable medicinal ingredients are admitted by authorities. Begin taking S.S.S. today and clear your skin of those blood disorders!

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Dreams

each has its own MEANING

Dreaming of undergoing a surgical operation is a favorable sign that you will soon gain relief from annoying conditions.

Many such dreams recorded have also been followed by business success and voyages that have proven quite pleasant.

Interpretations

Hands that float through your visions without any apparent cause are beckoning you away from your present conditions to success.

To be pursued in your dreams is a caution not to speak your mind.
